Biosecurity Training 28 July 2017

Limited to 20 places –book ASAP (Registration closes 26 July 2017)

CONSIDERED ESSENTIAL for anyone managing, working in, or entering natural bushland areas. This training is becoming the “new” requirement in bushland biosecurity-hygiene. Developed with support from the Department of Parks and Wildlife (WA) and delivered by our specialists, you will learn necessary skills and knowledge to mitigate a range of serious Biosecurity Threats using ‘Phytophthora Dieback’ as a significant widespread example.

Learn About:

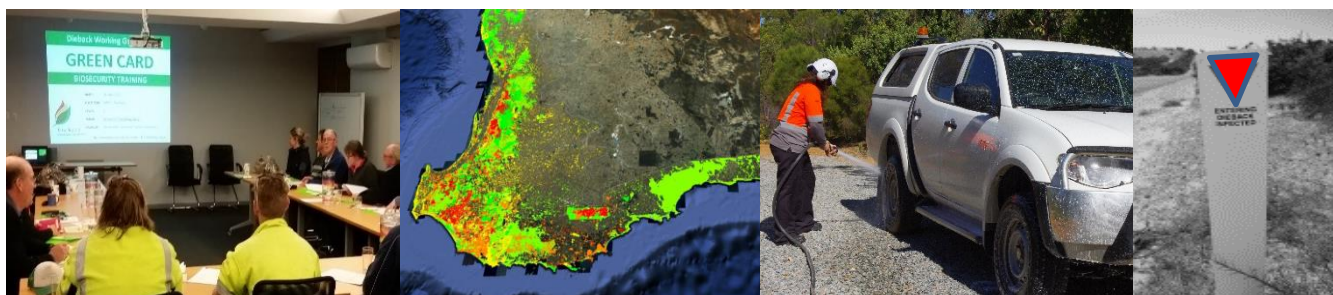

- Why “Biosecurity-Hygiene” important for Australia.
- How you can easily avoid spreading plant diseases and weeds into “vulnerable areas”.
- Important pre-planning to mitigate biosecurity risks, using the e.g. Phytophthora Dieback!
- Practical hygiene tactics for bushland users, managers, volunteers and field workers.

Gain New Skills:

- Understand and follow Phytophthora Dieback signage.
- Apply a safe-work method during vehicle clean-down.
- Identify parts of a vehicle to inspect and clean-down to industry standards.

Pre-requisites:

- None. You will be required to complete a competency-based Assessment and Code of Conduct as part of the training to be awarded an industry recognised Green Card.
